... some more comments

- Problems with greek characters and formulas
 - special field/use the LaTeX syntax
- Forms should be as much as self-contained as possible
 - more pages/form, use pre-defined pop-up menus where possible

Abstracts Provisionally Classified available on WWW to Scientific Committee & Session Chairpersons

- Functionality:

- Provide Scientific Committee and Session Chairpersons with a password protected access to submitted Abstracts
- Provide index by Author and by Classification/Session
- Provide Search tools
- ICALEPCS'99: remote access to the Database through WWW forms

Abstract 'Brochure' for Scientific Committee & Chairpersons Meeting

- Print Abstract 'Brochure' to be used as a work document during the Scientific Committee/Chairpersons Meeting
- ICALEPCS'99: Sorted abstracts accordingly in the Database and Printed from the Database

Publish Abstracts on WWW

- Functionality:

- Provide public access to submitted Abstracts through the WWW, with Author and Table of Contents index
 - Produce .pdf files of the abstract and link them with html indexes

Abstract Booklet

- Prepare printed booklet including Abstracts and general conference info (only for registered delegates)
 - Produce formatted document (Word typically) for camera ready reproduction containing:
 Programme Code, Title, Authors, Institutes,
 References, Text & Footnotes

Assign Programme Code to Contributions

- Assign Code to accepted Contributions which univocally identifies paper in the Conference Programme
- Enable Database to sort by 'Conference Programme'
 - Different 'schools'
 - Should at least identify Day, Session,
 Contribution Type (invited, oral, poster), Place in Session
 - Use individual fields of the same length
 - Sort posters by classification, then by institute, then by last name (M. Poole's "village system")

Legenda

- The first letter identifies the day of the week;
- the second and the third letters identify the session inside a day
 - A early morning
 - B late morning
 - C early afternoon
 - o D late afternoon
 - the number identifies one session between two in the same timeslot;
- the fourth letter (x) identifies the presentation type:
 - o P poster
 - o O oral normal
 - o I oral invited
- the last two digits (yy) form a number that identifies the order of the paper inside a session.

In the above scheme, \mathbf{x} is a placeholder for \mathbf{O} or \mathbf{I} , \mathbf{y} for a digit.

Abstract on the WWW & Booklet Procedure

.doc and .pdf files

PART II: Paper Submission

Instructions for the Preparation of Papers for Electronic Publication

- Provide detailed instructions, as Proceedings are produced electronically from the submitted files (define length, margins, fonts, section headings, figures, tables, references, acronyms, etc... see the JACoW WWW at http://www.cern.ch/accelconf)
- Provide and insist on the use of templates (download by WWW or FTP)

Paper Submission Instructions

- Contributions submitted by FTP before the Conference date (see later) or on a diskette during the Conference.
- All of the source files (text and figures) needed to make the paper, the PostScript version and the Submission Sheet (see later) must be submitted.
- File extensions: 3 or fewer characters
- File names according to the paper's Programme Code, e.g. for paper TC1P23:
 - ➤ TC1P23.ps the PostScript file
 - ➤ TC1P23.doc the WORD source file (TC1P23.tex in case of LaTeX)
 - ➤ TC1P23f1.eps EPS file containing figure 1
 - ➤ TC1P23f2.tif TIFF file containing figure 2
- Diskette(s) must be clearly labelled with the paper's Programme Code.

Submission Sheet

- Functionality:

- Contains essential information about the paper, how it was prepared and its 'keywords'.
- Requested information:
 - Paper Programme Code
 - Submitting Author name and affiliation
 - > Title of the paper
 - > Author name(s)
 - Number of pages in the document
 - ➤ Keywords (maximum 5) to be used as pointer when doing a 'search' in the CD-ROM proceedings
 - > File names and description
 - > Types of software and versions used for preparation of the paper and the figures
 - > The platform on which it was prepared
 - > The platform used to generate the diskette
 - ➤ Name of the person to contact at the Conference

Authors should in any case submit a paper hard copy together with a diskette accompanied by the Paper Submission Sheet at the Conference.

^{} for example: software for text (Word 97, LaTeX 2e, etc.), software for figures (Excel 97, etc.), etc.

Paper Submission @ the Conference

- Functionality:

- Set-up Front Desk for checking completeness of the Submission: paper copy, filled Submission Sheet,
 etc... (may need to distribute submissions during Conference days)
 - Check number of pages, labels on diskette
- Insert submitted material in a plastic folder, with associated Submission and Processing Sheet (contains info about Processing Office person who worked on the paper (FTP submission case), problems, etc...)
- Cross-check the information in the Database

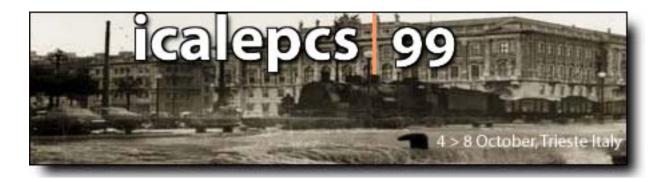

Note that Database contains information which come from the abstract or paper FTP submission time; will be used to create Table of Contents and Author Index for the Proceedings!

Paper Electronic Submission by FTP

- Set-up an FTP server to allow remote submission of paper files (on a dedicated machine, should be accessible also through hyper-links in the Submission Rules published on WWW)
- Allow anonymous FTP connection (ask authors to put files in binary mode)
- Deadline some days earlier than the start of the Conference -> eventual problems with the paper can be analysed and discussed with authors at the Conference (need Processing Office man-power ahead of the Conference)

WWW Submission Sheet Form

- Get the data as requested by the Submission Sheet
- Confirm submission to author by immediate acknowledgement on the WWW and by e-mail
 - WWW confirmation page
 - automatically send e-mail from the Editorial Team to submitting author containing data entered in the form
- Notify Editorial Team of submission by e-mail
 - automatically send same e-mail as above to Editorial Team
- ... authors who cannot use WWW forms:
 - should create a plain text (ASCII) file (with extension 'txt') containing the data as requested by the Submission Sheet
 - submit it with all of the files by FTP
 - notify the Editorial Team of submission by e-mail

Paper Submission via FTP - step 1 of 2

Brief instructions:

- 1. Send your files by FTP to the server, (see the separate instructions).
- 2. Fill in the programme code of your paper send it, by clicking on the 'SEND' button (pressing the 'Enter' key does not run).
- 3. Continue reading the instructions in the next page.

If your browser does not support forms, make a copy of the example submission sheet, prepare an E-mail containing the same information and send it to the ICALEPCS'99 editors.

Be sure to follow the instructions to ensure successful FTP submission.

Testing of PostScript Files

- Provide authors with the possibility to send PostScript files to the FTP server and have them automatically processed into .pdf files to check the results (e.g. test fonts)
 - Set-up an Acrobat watched 'input' directory on the FTP server.
 - Transfer PostScript file and the generated .pdf and/or log file to an 'output' directory for being uploaded by the author.
 - Files automatically removed from the 'output' directory after 15 days.
- At PAC'99 the distilling of the PostScript file was done on-line and result shown immediately.

... some more comments

- No connection between the WWW Submission Form and the FTP server
- Integrated WWW Submission Form, including data and files. PostScript distilled on-line by the server and result/logfile shown.
- Check for completeness of data + paper file(s)
- If correct -> on WWW immediately

Re-submission of Papers by FTP

- Functionality:
 - Allow re-submission of red dot papers on the FTP server
 - Keep trace of (at least) the last Submission Sheet date/time and count them
- ICALEPCS'99: Re-Submissions after the Conference dealt with only by e-mail, directly with the Editorial Team
